

Beginning My Descent To Hell

Before I Turn

In a prison that resides behind the mask
A mask that we all seem to don eventually
I see from within and can view each distinct flaw with perfect clarity
I find that the perfect hiding place is one that no one seems to seek Hidden in plain sight, no one will come looking
Because if they came, they would be seeking out the devil
And nobody wants to become face-to-face with the devil

My eyes are the gates to a broken conscience
My lies are the keepers to my soul
If I shut both my eyes, maybe I can still survive
Like I'm still lost in time
I could never see the sign

Not a man, just a coward
Like I've been too wary now
Take a step off the tower
And begin my descent to

Hold my hand to oblivion
Because the simple fact is that the devil exists
And I hate this world that we're living in
But are we really alive if we're already dead
Hold my hand to oblivion
And if we really end this, know the devil exists
We wanna starve this body, but we're feeding it
And we were never alive, 'cause we're already dead

My love is a hollow grave of nothing
I bleed so at least I can feel something
Cause it's inside my mind that I keep my dark passenger
But I'm reduced to resort to the lies that I keep
But maybe I should die for a sake

I wanna be there for years and years to come
But if I can't hide in plain sight I'd lose my soul
If I shut both my eyes, maybe I can still survive
Like I'm still lost in time
I could never see the sign

Not a man, just a coward
Like I've been too wary now
Take a step off the tower
And begin my descent to
Not a man, just a coward
Like I've been too wary now
Take a step off the tower
And begin my descent to hell

Hold my hand to oblivion
Because the simple fact is that the devil exists
And I hate this world that we're living in
But are we really alive if we're already dead
Hold my hand to oblivion
And if we really end this, know the devil exists
We wanna starve this body, but we're feeding it
And we were never alive, 'cause we're already dead
