

Paralysis

Before I Turn

I can't close my eyes!

I lay in bed, there's a light shining through
But there's somebody staring at me in the corner of my room
I can't look away, I've tried
My bed's the only place I can hide
So I stay awake till morning comes to save me

(I just want out of my head!)

I've been awake for days, my body's feeling weak
I wanna seize my Saturday but I'm terrified to sleep
It's like a twisted buzzing in my head
This demon on my chest will suffocate me till I'm dead

I'm feeling death, there's a light shining through
But there's somebody coming towards me from the corner of my room
I can't look away, I've tried
My bed's the only place I can hide
So I'll stay awake till morning fucking saves me

I can't close my eyes!

I'm starting to suffocate, and my lungs collapse
It's not a lucid dream, it's my own personal hell
Ten minutes of horror, but it feels like hours
They hold me down as I witness the Devil's masterpiece

It's like the more I think the less I feel
The more I try to sleep the more I don't know what's real
I could try to stop the pain, there's no where I can hide
It seems the only option has become... suicide

I pray for death, with the light shining through
I see the Devil staring at me in the corner of my room
I can't stay awake, I've tried
But I don't wanna live this life
So I'll go to sleep so death can finally take me
