

Return Policy

Bellah

You know, I'm eager to see
Does your heart have a return policy?

Keep your roses
They gon' die in hours
I won't water your lies
Why should I water your flowers?
Keep your chocolates
They won't hold me at night
Your words don't hold any weight
Tell me, why should I?

I keep getting unwanted deliveries
Someone should explain why he won't put me out my misery
Don't come here no more
I don't think I'm too fond of
This thing, this thing that he calls love
It's hurting me more than it does leave me wanting more

Has it been twenty-eight days? (Twenty-eight days, twenty-eight days)
Has it been broken in places? (Broken in places)
You know, I'm eager to see (See)
Does your heart have a return policy?
Has it been twenty-eight days? (Twenty-eight days, twenty-eight days)
Has it been broken in places? (Broken in places)
You know, I'm eager to see
Does your heart have a return policy?

Give it back to the maker
I filled out all the papers
I don't want conversation
Pray I don't miss the deadline
There's no time, baby, there's no space
You got to leave today
Envelope, envelope
Let the stamp hit the door

I keep getting unwanted deliveries
Someone should explain why he won't put me out my misery (Oh)
Don't come here no more (Oh, oh)
I don't think I'm too fond of
This thing, this thing that he calls love
It's hurting me more than it does leave me wanting more

Has it been twenty-eight days? (Twenty-eight, twenty-eight)
Has it been broken in places? (Broken in places)
You know, I'm eager to see (See)
Does your heart have a return policy?
(Return policy?)
Has it been twenty-eight days? (Twenty-eight, twenty-eight)
Has it been broken in places? (Broken in places)
You know, I'm eager to see (See)
Does your heart have a return policy?
(Return policy?)

Twenty-eight days, twenty-eight
Broken in places

I'm eager to see
Does your heart have a return policy?