Early Retirement

Belvedere

There's nothing now just sit and stare While lying on his rocking chair Just waiting for it to be over There was a time back When he's carried all that brought on him And put it on his shoulder