When I Was Younger

Benjamin Amaru

He wonders, where the gold is there
His life, now and then, it feels a little bit strange
All the chances, and all his mistakes
Well, he wonders, how can he ever make a change?

And his friends say, "You're gonna be fine"
With all this hard work you put into your life
And they told him, "Sometimes it feel the same"
But when they do so, man, then you'll just start to sing, hey

When I was younger, my momma told me
You will find something you love
Don't you worry 'bout what other people think
When I was younger, my daddy would say
Make a sense out of your living
Take your time, but give it everything you have

She's hopeless, she never felt so low
In this dark place, she doesn't know where to go, uh
All the downfalls and all the lost thought
It doesn't make sense no more, but it goes on and on

And her friends say, "Hey, you're gonna be fine"
With all this hard work you put into your life, yeah
Yeah, they told her, "Sometimes it feel the same"
But when they do so, then let go of the pain, yeah, now

When I was younger, my momma told me
You will find something you love
Don't you worry 'bout what other people think
When I was younger, my daddy would say
Make a sense out of your living
Take your time, but give it everything you have

When I was younger, my momma told me
You will find something you love
Don't you worry 'bout what other people think
When I was younger, my daddy would say
Make a sense out of your living
Take your time, but give it everything you have
