

Rockabye

Benjamin Dakota Rogers

So come
Won't you stay?
Try to make this place feel like home
Because I haven't felt at home in days
But I'm okay
Because there's a priest he's coming Monday
Says he's going to make me right as the rain
That's coming down
It's been storming here forever
Oh they've flooded the whole damn town
Where I was born
But I left that place so quickly
So now I'm lit up by a city I don't know

So rockabye you moonlight lady
And don't you cry oh my sweet baby
Because the morning train is going to come
And I'll be coming home on it maybe
So rockabye oh you moonlight lady

California, L A
Oh you know I'll always love you
But you know that I can never stay
Asleep
Because I'm haunted by a monster
Oh I'm haunted by my image in my dreams
But I can fly
Up above this world so silly
Wave to the man on the moon as he's passing me by Either way
I heard from someone you're still pretty
You know I still think of you time and time again

So rockabye you moonlight lady
And don't you cry oh my sweet baby
Because the morning train is going to come
And I'll be coming home on it maybe
So rockabye oh you moonlight lady
