

4AM in London

Benjamin Francis Leftwich

It's 4AM in London, it's evening for you
You're staring at the sunlight, while I'm looking at the moon
You're getting up for work now, as I settle into bed
Couple tears on a screen but remember when we said

That if birds fly over the time zones
Nobody can tell us what we don't know

Distance is easy, you make me completely alive
You make me completely alive
You make me completely alive
You make me completely alive
You make me complete

It's 4AM in London, finally I know
The way that I'm feeling is bigger than the roses
That I've been sending your way, how else could I say

That if birds fly over the time zones
Nobody can tell us what we don't know

Distance is easy, you make me completely alive
You make me completely alive
You make me completely alive
You make me completely alive
You make me completely alive

Me oh my, doesn't matter to me now
You played for too long, let me share what we found
Swimming in your arms but as the sun goes down
Flying your way through the night into day
Me oh my, doesn't matter to me now
You played for too long, let me share what we found
Swimming in your arms but as the sun goes down
Flying your way through the night into day

You make me completely alive
You make me completely alive
You make me completely alive (Make me completely alive)
You make me completely alive
