Sophie

Benjamin Francis Leftwich

Caught a bird and let it go, had a rope and don't you know When I pulled it down, it settled on the ground Caught a bird and in a trap, had a lot to give back When the sun came by you opened up your eyes

```
Oh brother, will you let me in again?
Oh sister, I am stumbling again
Oh Sophie, will you be my good friend?
Oh Sophie, will you be here in the end?
```

Then you whispered in my ear, "I am lost, but you're here." As the scene unfolded, truth got moved away

Caught a bird and let it go, had a rope and don't you know

When I pulled it down, it flew from the ground

```
Oh brother, will you let me in again?
Oh sister, I am stumbling again
Oh Sophie, will you be my good friend?
Oh Sophie, will you be here in the end?
```

Even though the scene was never golden. All the while you're bones have gotten frozen. You stood still.

```
Oh brother, will you let me in again?
Oh sister, I am stumbling again.
Oh Sophie, will you be my good friend?
Oh Sophie, will you be here in the end?
```
