

What was it like when there was nothing at all?
You said, "Let there be light," and so light You saw
And all of the galaxies we don't even know
We're still discovering all that You spoke

What was it like to breathe lungs that breathe?
To look into our eyes, and to hear our heartbeat
In the orchard of Eden, we ate from a tree
And now we're still discovering all You've since redeemed

Oh, what a masterpiece that's still unfolding
Time is the ink inside the pen that He's holding
We'll see His majesty written in glory
'Cause all of history was just His story

What was it like to send us Your Son?
To watch as He died (Watch as He died) for all that we've done?
Your tears from the sky I think gave it away
Your heart discovering the worst kind of pain

Oh, what a masterpiece that's still unfolding
Time is the ink inside the pen that He's holding
We'll see His majesty written in glory
'Cause all of history was just

What was it like as the Almighty arose?
Did all of Heaven roar as He rolled back the stone?

Oh, what a masterpiece that's still unfolding
Time is the ink inside the pen that He's holding
We'll see His majesty written in glory
'Cause all of history is just His story
Oh, what a masterpiece that's still unfolding
Time is the ink inside the pen that He's holding
We'll see His majesty written in glory
'Cause all of history was just His story

Yo, what would it feel like if we went to another chorus? (Uh h uh)
Would that be too much? (Yeah, let's try it)

Oh, what a masterpiece that's still unfolding
Time is the ink inside the pen that He's holding
We'll see His majesty written in glory
'Cause all of history was just His story
