

Say Something

Bertolf Lentink

Be aware, before you lose your self-esteem
Let's go back before I lose my mind
Now's the time, band a drum and shake your tambourine
Eitherway, we are both out of line

I'd go all the way, to start again
Not to let this end, so

Talk to me now, help me turn this around
I'll try to listen this time, so scream and shout
Say something, show me what your silence is all about
You've gotta save me from being too loud
I'll hear you out

I'm always loud when you're whispering
You're insecure, while I'm proud
I might not be as thought as I think I am
And you're more than a face in the crowd

Come on, we haven't come this far, just to let this end, so

Talk to me now, help me turn this around
I'll try to listen this time, so scream and shout
Say something, show me what your silence is all about
You've gotta save me from living in thought

Talk to me now, help us turn this around
I'll try to listen this time, so scream and shout
Say something, show me what that silence is all about
You've gotta save me from being too loud

Talk to me now, help me turn this around
I'll try to listen this time, so scream and shout
Say something to me, what's wrong, let it out
You've gotta save me from living in thought

I'll hear you out
Say something, just
