

I'll Find A Way

Beth Crowley

Nobody even remembers
Who drew first blood in the war
Your anger and pain
Turned to misguided blame
And you're looking to Settle the score

So why make me pay the price
When you forced me into this fight?

I am searching for
Somewhere I belong
In the world you've been tearing apart

'Cause you'd rather go
And destroy it all
Than admit you were flawed from the start

I have to believe
I can fix what you've broken someday
I don't know how but
I'll find a way

I never saw the whole picture
From the outside looking in
The secrets you kept
Make it hard to accept
The truth of what I'm up against

Now you despise what I am
'Cause we fear what we don't understand

I am searching for
Somewhere I belong
In the world you've been tearing apart

'Cause you'd rather go
And destroy it all
Than admit you were flawed from the start

I have to believe
I can fix what you've broken someday
I don't know how but
I'll find a way

I'm not the enemy
You made me out to be
I won't forget the way
You turned your back on me

I am searching for
Somewhere I belong

'Cause you'd rather go
And destroy it all
Than admit you were flawed from the start

I have to believe
I don't know how but
I'll find a way
