

Love Answers Everything

Better Luck Next Time

Have you been sad that you're all alone?
Can you take back what you never know?
Take it from me that you'll be alright
Just know tonight that I'm by your side
I cannot stand here talking by myself when I'm with only you and no one else

There's nothing left of the heart, and the hardest thing is not regret,
but the fact that I'm wondering
If you'll come back, and at that, will you be the same?
I guess we'll find out if love answers everything

My mind is telling me that it's something I don't know
Maybe I'll get it right if I turn it off and go
I can't predict the future, I can't ignore the past Yet everybody says that it's something that will last Should I be trying now?