

Tomorrow Maybe

Better Luck Next Time

This story starts like any other
Another day I'm down, I swear I'm gonna' leave this town
And it turns out like every other
Just give me something more worth living for, forever more.

We will make it through
We will make it right
And we will see through one more awkward night
Watch this all go down as I'm holding you tight
We will make it through, just not tonight.

If we could start today all over
I'd make it clear to see you're meant for me through everything
As I begin to think this over,
I've come to realize the hurt inside is nothing more than pain through compromise.

We will make it through
We will make it right
And we will see through one more awkward night
Watch this all go down as I'm holding you tight
We will make it through, just not tonight.

Forgiveness for all this
Will you come along when I bring you down into this?
I must admit, tomorrow, maybe it will be ok.

We will make it through
We will make it right
And we will see through one more awkward night
Watch this all go down as I'm holding you tight
We will make it through, just not tonight.