Beverley Craven

I listen to the rain, whispering your name And hurricanes cloud my life again The memory will fade And time will turn the page Our love was made I dream of yesterday The fantasy is mine It's you I long to find I close my eyes And dream that you are here tonight Make believe you're crazy for me You turn your head to hide I know the reason why The moon we ride Could drown the swelling tide I call out from the shore A siren from the sand This lonely land I am forever more The fantasy is mine It's you I long to find I close my eyes And dream that you are here tonight Make believe you're crazy for me I close my eyes And dream that you are here tonight I listen to the rain Whispering your name Whispering your name
