Beautiful Contradiction

Beverley Knight

Guess my Mama knew exactly what she meant the day she said "Be careful what you wish for it will come to you."

Little did I know the day I met you, you would demonstrate How everything in Mama's words would ring so true Independent people with a different take on living Now how did we become more than just good friends?

Baby we make such a beautiful contradiction Together we are in no two ways the same. Baby we make such a beautiful contradiction And it's the very thing that sparks the flame.

You and I should be like oil and water but somehow we mix together and we make a very special blend Every day we clash on politics, religion, but we learned the art of how to kiss and make up in the end ye ah.

Sometimes I believe that we were born on different planets Alien invasion of my heart and soul

I realise it, you learn, you gotta cry, you gotta respect and Feel somebody you gotta fall, you gotta rise To really understand the things that make this little world go round.

That's what really makes us, that's how we learn.

Sometimes I believe that we were born on different planets Alien invasion of my heart and soul.
