

Emptiness

Beware of Darkness

The silence in the room tonight
Could drive a deaf man to suicide
So how do you think I'm taking this?
The stillness in the room right now
Would make a Buddhist monk scream for his life
So how do you think I'm taking this?

Emptiness
Since you've been gone
I don't even fight it anymore
It's becoming me and I'm becoming it
This emptiness is mine

And the hope inside the room right now
Would make an atheist fall on his knees and pray to God
So how do you think I'm worshipping this

Emptiness
Since you've been gone
I don't even fight it anymore
It's becoming me and I'm becoming it
This emptiness is mine

The reflection of my face in the mirror
Would make a demon jump back in fear
So how do you think how I'm handling

Emptiness
Since you've been gone
I don't even fight it anymore
It's becoming me and I'm becoming it
Lifts me up like an angel
Holds me in the night
Doesn't care I have no one
Doesn't care I'm alone
It's freeing sometimes with emptiness as home
And I love
Love
This emptiness I've come to call my own
