

Double Infinity

Big Thief

In the arms of the one I love
Still seeing pictures of
Another from the future or the past
What's lost or waiting?
Troubled mind, let me rest
My life is full, my heart is blessed
And still you put me to the test
Of losing and of gaining

Angel, come, take my hand
Hold me close, let me land
On my feet in the sand
With the winds around me raging
I've been too long behind these walls
Inside this house ignoring calls
And time moves like the water falls
Unrelenting, cascading

The trees on fire, the rivers flood
And all the banks are soaked in blood
A mirror makes a portrait draws the shadow
And the shading
The butterflies on the summer breeze
The wildflowers sway with ease
At the bridge of two infinities
What's been lost and what lies waiting?

Beauty, speak to me
Let me know you, let me see
Myself inside your mystery
Through the crystal cage of aging
Longing to go back again
To be someone I've never been
I echo and I seek to win
Mourning and celebrating

Fastening so desperately to
Vision and to memory
At the bridge of two infinities
What is forming? What is fading?
Deep within the center of the picture
Is the one I love
The eye behind the essence
Still, unmovable, unchanging

The eye behind the essence
Still, unmovable, unchanging