

How Many

Bill Haley

If all the guys you ever knew
Were lined in columns two by two
Then I wonder (wonder) just how many there would be?

And if all the guys you ever kissed
Were marked on paper on a list
Then I wonder (wonder) just how many there would be?

Well there must have been a million
For everywhere you go
You seem so well acquainted, everybody says "hello"

And if I could count all the broken hearts
Like mine would be if we should part
Then I wonder (wonder) just how many there would be?

Well there must have been a million
For everywhere you go
You seem so well acquainted, everybody says "hello"

And if I could count all the broken hearts
Like mine would be if we should part
Then I wonder (wonder) just how many there would be?
