She's Got A New Spell

What is that sound? Where is it coming from? All around What are you running from?

Something you don't understand Something you cannot command That's how I know She's got a new spell

Yes, that's how I know That she's got a new spell What's going down? Who's moved this room from round me?

Where has it gone? I fear this night will drown me So I lie awake all night 'Cause I can't sleep with something I can't fight

The laws of gravity are very, very strict And you're just bending them for your own benefit One minute she says She's gone to get the cat in

The next thing I know She's mumbling in Latin She cut the stars out of the sky And baked them in a pie

She stole the scene and scenery The script and the machinery
