The Only One

Sometimes when you lose your way to me I think you don't care at all If you don't get here soon I'll tear the clock down from the wall Your family and friends don't understand They treat me so strange The book you said to read Well I have read but nothing's changed

The clocks go forward the clocks go back Yet here I sit if I was the only one and Oh you cannot hear me Oh you cannot hear me Can anybody hear me out there

He's up on his high horse again You're down in the park I'm left to fight my impulses alone here in the dark The chain that fell off my bike last night Is now wrapped 'round my heart Sometimes I think that Fate has been against us from the start

I long to let our love run free, Yet here I am a victim of geography And oh you cannot hear me Oh you cannot hear me Can anybody hear me out there

She said, kiss me or would you rather Live in a land where the soap won't lather And oh You know you are the only one Yes you are the only one Yes you are the only one
