

Taking Chances

Billy Ocean

The woman is mine, why do we cheat and lie
Why do we go on this way
Spending our time, searching for alibis
Hiding all secrets everyday

We both have somebody else
How can we break their hearts
We'll have to start

Taking chances, each time we meet
Casual glances when it ain't right to speak
Can't let it show, we can't let them know
So we'll just have to keep on taking chances, you and I

We know it's wrong, we can't slip away
I guess we're in much too deep
Tell me how long can it go on this way
Frightened of talking in our sleep

Sometimes I wish it could end
But it would break our hearts
So we'll have to start

Taking chances, each time we meet
Casual glances when it ain't right to speak
Can't let it show, we can't let them know
So we'll just have to keep on taking chances, you and I
[Repeat with ad-libs til end]
