

When We Were Young

Billy Raffoul

It's cold outside and you feel just like you might turn to stone
Oh Canada how I love her the only home I've ever known
From the west side to PEI to all that lies between
This country cried too many lives taken tragically

Oh how my grip's loosening
On all the things she must have seen
I doubt it's worth mentioning
We were wrong
When we were young

Do you, do you, Oh do you remember when we were young?
Do you, do you, Oh do you remember when we were young?

I saw your face the strangest place we swore we'd never go
Now we're here what say you dear? I won't tell if you don't
But your mannequin stare
And your jet black hair still make me feel like home
Want so badly you to ask me if I came alone

Oh how my grip's loosening
On all the things not meant to be
I doubt it's worth mentioning
It's been so long
Since we were young

Do you, do you, Oh do you remember when we were young?
Do you, do you, Oh do you remember when we were young?
(We Were Young)
Do you, do you, Oh do you remember when we were young?
Do you, do you, Oh do you remember when we were young?

I used to say that you could change if you would only try
But today I made the same mistake now I can sympathize

Oh how my grip's loosening
On all the things worth promising
I hope you remember me
As I was

Do you, do you, Oh do you remember when we were young?
Do you, do you, Oh do you remember when we were young?
Do you, do you, Oh do you remember when we were young?
(When we were young)
Do you, do you, Oh do you remember when we were young?
