

Tomorrow Became Yesterday

Billy Ray Cyrus

We were young, barely outta school,
Fell in love like lovers do,
And the whole world seemed brand new,

Had a little girl and a little boy,
How we shared in our pride and joy,
And each day another dream came true,

Somehow it all just slipped away,
Oh how a memory fades,
Sunny skies turned to grey,
Tomorrow became yesterday,

You had a smile that I recall,
I see you laughin' there in the hall,
With that look twinklin' in your eyes,

We used to talk for hours on end,
Dreamed of forever remember when,
The only thing I didn't love was saying goodbye,

Now we stand here on the fray,
Not really knowin' just what to say,
Should I go or should I stay,

Tomorrow became Yesterday [x3]

We were young, barely outta school,
Fell in love like lovers do,
And the whole world seemed brand new,

Never dreamed how things would change,
How our lives have rearranged,
I'd look around and you'd be gone,
Somehow you just moved on,

Now it's time to turn the page,
Walk away to another stage,
I pray to God this memory never fades,

Tomorrow became yesterday [x2]

We were young barely outta school,
Fell in love like lovers do,
And the whole world seemed brand new.
