

All The Luck In The World

Billy Strings

You see the choice in front of you
And though it's hard to make
You feel you will come through
You feel how everyone has changed
But they know who you are
And they're watching what you do

When they say that they wish you all the luck in the world
When they say that they'll miss you when you're gone

You walked through their frozen worlds
You knew they would come down
As soon as you came to
You left them standing all around
The ghost that had been gone
The one they thought they knew

When they said that they wished you all the luck in the world
When you know that they'd love to see you fall

You tried to do the best you could
It wasn't quite enough
But what else could you do
To find a way to make this real
A way to find your own
A way to stay true

When they say that they wish you all the luck in the world
When you know that they'd love to see you fall
