

Black Ark

Billy Woods

When spacing out don't hit me with that basic math
Catching him breaking fast where the angels laugh
Boarding ancient crafts, burn your golden calves
Nothing sacred, last chance escaping nature's wrath
Gravity's grasp, megablast, splash, forever cast, clash
Past, present, mass trance, suggest a method
Sleight of hand, magic a tad reckless Lessons, mathematics, transgressions
Flood the planet, feeling manic, played way outta tune
Many suns, many moons
Whirlwind pyramids, souls spark filament
Once dark symbols bore familiar resemblance
Lightbody brilliant, rhythm and vibe
Stretched, weighed, measured, discipline to align
Lord of the rhyme, strange chords forewarn my arrival
All eyes on Cairo, knotty hair grown in black spirals
Smoke bellows from wide nostrils
Turbulence, true apostles
Spaceship Earth, mostly cold and hostile
Awake the impossible, exert pressure
Lords never worry

Destined
Altered myth all I'm left with Eclectic
Headtrip imprint
Release that tension
I speak on potential

Into the valley of Death
Rode the six hundred
Lunging, the cables jerk
Elevator plunging, black faces in black cages
Fire in the Earth
Four kilometers of cold dirt
Exodus, breathe dust, dance with death
Her cheeks blush
Finest gown at the ball, sirens call, legends of the fall crushed
Velvet inside the coffin
Heavy metal particulate coughing blood often
Sent home to your orphans dead walking
TB, houses In Virginia/scorching
Gulp air in shaft, the gas burns sky blue
Theirs not to reason why
Die whether you don't or do

Cross-legged in catacombs, Jules Verne sent to break stone
Fumes diesel
The world turns, bones picked clean
Intelligent boll weevils
Smiegel yearns, by all neccessary means
Precious, older than evil
Earth quakes, fire rages atop mercury lakes
Alone together in the darkest place
But Lord's never worry

Destined
