

There

Bilmuri

We've had a fight
And I've had my share of sleepless nights
I kept thinking I was the only one that's right
I thought you would be out of mind and out of sight

After half a year I'm realizing now
That it's just starting to weigh me down
I can't deny that I made you bleed
And I can't deny you were there for me
If you ever needed me, I'd be there

I waited for the crash and it came so late
All these bruises here grow darker every day
I cut my heart open to show you my stake
Can't stand the thought of me just letting this fade

After half a year I'm realizing now
That it's just starting to weigh me down
I can't deny that I made you bleed
And I can't deny you were there for me
If you ever needed me, I'd be there
