

Nature Regulate

Birdpen

This is one I thought today, as I lay and looking up,
The thoughts of my past went deep, with the sharks that wait fo r me.

Armies of truth, where have you gone? The words wanted on their heads.

Lies pay quick to shut you up, quietness till death you part,
The beast walks wild through this town, where I live is fallen down;

The bridge is drunk and have long gone, we are trapped in a box

Am I the only one trying to figure a way out to find my way out

Nature regulate.

Is there a cause and turn for choice? For decisions being made.
Because I have no say on the way things run today
And the cat is fat with breath of hell. and the children, they don't listen well.

All blank and dead and blind, are we running out of time?
Mother hang over from drink, throws herself down the sink
Watch it all go down slow, again and again and again and again.

Am I the only one trying to figure a way out to find my way out

Nature regulate.

And all emotions are deceased, one down like rotten tea
I run a hundred miles an hour to try and get free.
But you stain dollars, we obey, ease the military away.
What happen to making the most of it? Of one life, one road of the dice
Is all you get, is all you get, is all you get.

Capitals breaking down, the king wants more each day
And where are the animals? Building a plan at home.
Building a plan at home, building a plan at home.

Building a plan at home

And all emotions are deceased, one down like rotten tea
I run a hundred miles an hour to try and get free.
