

Alright

Birdtalker

My body waits for my head
And I've waited for a while
All of my ghosts are taunting
Like they're baiting for a fight

And I'm drifting 'round in a dream
In the thickest fog that you've ever seen
And I've waited here for a while

And it's alright
In time, clarity comes
Like a faint light
And I'm gonna make it out

My body waits for my head
And I've waited for a while
I trace the thread to my ache
And I'm merging with the night

Every shadow here is alive
But they're reaching out to be held with pride
And I just wait here for a while

And it's alright
In time, clarity comes
Like a faint light
And I'm gonna make it out

My body waits for my head
And I've waited for a while
Been not alive but not dead
Why've I waited for a sign?

And the world. It wakes from a dream
And the fog rolls back like a final scene
And I just wait here for a while

And it's alright
In time, clarity comes
Like a faint light
I will make it out

And it's alright
In time, clarity comes
Like a faint light
And we're gonna make it alright