

Faded

Birdtalker

The locks are broken
And the night is roaming
There's no place to go
Where the darkness isn't going
I know your heart was open
And now it's folding
I know you saw a place where we'd be face to face
And now you're losing focus

But I've never faded on you
No I've never faded on you

I know you don't wanna find my eyes
'Cause you're just so tired of feeling so tired
Like you've gotta pick yourself up
With whatever gets it done
And like it feels so wrong
To have to do it alone

But I've never faded on you
No I've never faded on you
I've never faded on you

When your defenses can't hold anymore
Yeah, when life comes barging through your door
Has you picking up its messes off of your floor
On your hands and knees
I hope you're feeling me

'Cause I've never faded on you
No I've never faded on you
I've never faded on you
No I've never faded on you
