Bizzle

Lord Jesus I can't believe it
I was having this terrible dream it seemed that
The whole world hated you for no reason
Except for when they chains needed gold pieces
They rejected god, and turned back to Egypt
They accepted darkness, thought that was freedom
But a mess we caused you could've blessed us all
But all flesh will dog you for their platinum leashes

And then they said we all came from apes
And then I said well who made the apes
And why we still looking at them apes today
How they stay that way, why do they not change
And if we came from monkeys, what makes us great
I still cant relate, my brains achin'
I don't get it, I told 'em we were made in yo image
But they wanted ape faces

And half the world was full of poverty
The other half they had a lot to eat
They would watch 'em starve, and not help at all
Just fill they stomach till it stretched they heart
Just blamed you, and bought extra cars
Hit the buffet and taste test it all
Throw the rest away and say where is god
You gave us the bread, and we kept it all

Ooh daddy I was callin' for you, where were you at (where were you at)
Father you scared me, don't ever do that (ever do that)
I just wanna be where ever you at (where ever you at)
Lord I don't care if I ever go back (never go back)
Lord I don't care if I ever go back (never go back)
Lord I don't care if I ever go back (never go back)
Lord I don't care if I ever go back (never go back)
Lord I don't care if I ever go back (never go back)

This dream lord, it felt so real
But bad was good, and good was evil
It's like they were tryna make you illegal
Like you were the villain, and Bruce Jenner the hero
A man would say he was born a woman
In a mans body and they called it regular
Another man said he's a different man
In that same body it was schizophrenia

Made role models out of porn stars
Turned little girls into Porsche cars
They were so fast
Raised up to be drop outs, no class
Bad girls will tell good girls
How to live a little, and that was nothin'
But when good girls would tell bad girls
How to live at all, they said that was judgin'

Seems that we'd all forget who made us
We were so convinced that we were different races
Same flesh, with different faces

They'd pick our place, but off pigment changes
And men would all tend to kill each other
Simply cause they ain't feel each other
Wanted to wear a crown, so they can stare down
So they would tear down, and not build each other

And y'all were trapped in this wicked flesh
And filled with junk food and different mess
And no one can tame it, not even I
It's like we were all addicted to sex
It was so bad, we let AIDS swap
Still ain't stop, it was really crazy
Stead of abstinence, and not havin' it
We'd rather have it then, just kill the baby

Ooh daddy I was callin' for you, where were you at (where were you at)
Father you scared, don't ever do that (don't ever do that)
I just wanna be wherever you at (wherever you at)
Lord I don't care if I ever go back (never go back)
Lord I don't care if I ever go back (never go back)
Lord I don't care if I ever go back (never go back)
Lord I don't care if I ever go back (never go back)
Lord I don't care if I ever go back (never go back)
