Broken Heart

She looks good with a broken heart She makes an easy mark I hate to be rough I like her so much I don't know where to start She looks good with her eyes red Matches her long red dress I like the way that she walks The way she talks No matter what she says

And you know I know my sugar there's no one sweeter than you And you know I know my sugar that no one else ever will do And she knows I need it But I've had enough for now She looks good with a broken heart

I like to see you fly Up in the broken sky Don't slit your wrists Don't jump off a bridge It's gonna be alright

If you bring your love around Don't bring me down I like your face You're such a waste When you wear that frown

And you know I know my sugar there's no one sweeter than you And you know I know my sugar that no one else ever will do And she knows I need it But I've had enough for now And she knows I need it But I've seen enough for now She looks good with a broken heart

She the best She's my sunshine My only sunshine Shows me a good time Show her my worse side

And you know I know my sugar there's no one sweeter than you And you know I know my sugar that no one else ever will do And she knows I need it But I've had enough for now And she knows I need it But I've seen enough for now She looks good with a broken heart

Good with a broken heart Good
