

Dying Just to Hold You

Black Lab

I want your love your scent, your touch it's not enough to dream this baby I want your love you smile, you go but I could show you what I'm made of you're watching me from above but baby I want your love the wall comes down the dawn shines out I'm dying just to hold you dying just to hold you the wall comes down your light shines out I'm trying not to show you I'm dying just to hold you this stone, this heart it falls apart when you are gone you know baby I want your love a rag, a doll would you install as king of all maybe it's not enough cause baby I want your love the wall comes down the dawn shines out I'm dying just to hold you dying just to hold you the wall comes down your light shines out I'm trying not to show you I'm dying just to hold you