

The Chase

Black Messiah

Valhalla was close to fall. The Vanir use of magic nearly threw Odin's host off, but with their very last effort the Æsir could withstand the storm and repel the hostile army. As the Vanir felt that their march on Æsir's stronghold would not be crowned with success, they disheartendly began to retreat. Now it was the Æsir's time to chase the Vanir back to their home. Driven by their thirst for revenge. Thor and Tyr lead the Æsir's rush on their horses chasing after Njörd and his brothers and come to stop on the top of a small mountain providing a perfect view over Vanaheim.

THOR:

"Look, Brother. Down there in the valley ...
this must be Vanaheim"

TYR:

"This is supposed to be Vanaheim? ...
Let's burn it to the ground!"