

Funny Games

Black Rebel Motorcycle Club

You stray in the dark, but cut through the light of day
Ease in again to the games that you once played
Light as a footstep, but loud as deafening call
For every monster's been stoned down by love

Laugh yourself to pieces,
Shake your rattling bones
But all you hide, open your eyes
And tell yourself to leave the calling moans

Our normal life won't be the same
There's no one safe from this
Our normal life won't be the same
There's no one safe from this

You stab through the heart, but keep your eyes pressed shut
Still eases your mind to know what you must cut
We panic ourselves, you panic until you drop
But every night you must pray it be forgot

Laugh yourself to pieces,
Shake your rattling bones
But your pride's an endless guise
You tell yourself to leave the calling moans

Our normal life won't be the same
There's no one safe from this
Our normal life won't be the same
There's no one who will play my games