

Lose Yourself

Black Rebel Motorcycle Club

Breaks in the light only shape what you see
Gotta feel it in you heart with every beat
You lose your love, it don't mean a thing
Hold it in a word, but never speak

Why won't you lose yourself
Why won't you lose yourself
Why won't you lose yourself
At all, at all

Climbed so high, can't escape what you dream
You feel it in your bones, but never ease
It's in your touch, but you can't feel a thing
You're trying not to look at the face you see

Why won't you lose yourself
Why won't you lose yourself
Why won't you lose yourself
At all
Wont you lose yourself
Why won't you lose yourself
Won't you lose yourself
At all

Your still sun, your still sky
You still fall, you still rise

Tiny little lies replace what you need
I see it in your eyes, but never reach
You can't keep quiet, you can't even scream
You hold it in your heart, but the rest you leave

Why won't you lose yourself
Why won't you lose yourself
Why won't you lose yourself at all
Why won't you lose yourself
Why won't you lose yourself
Won't you lose yourself at all

Your still sun, your still sky
You still fall, you still rise

It's all for you
