Alive

Listen to the silence growing louder A whisper can sometimes be louder than a scream Even in your wildest dreams Oh growing louder But I am Never more alive than when I am Lying in your arms again

Some say that each and everyone of us is dying They don't admit that they have never really Lived at all And swung it at the big ball Oh I don't fight it 'cause I am never more alive than when I am lying in your arms again

Some people act like love was just a kind of guessing game So when they want you what the hell are they responding to? And some people act like they're immaturing I don't know if I am growing younger But I am never more alive than when I am lying in your arms aga in