

I'd Be Lyin

Blackberry Smoke

Tell you I'd be home every night
Breakfast in bed and we'll never fight
Say I'm wrong when I know I'm right
But baby, I'd be lying

Only staying gone for a day or two
Pretending I'm too good to be true
Saying I'd write a song about you
But baby, I'd be lying

Everybody's gonna tell you what to do
You can believe what you wanna believe
But let me tell you what's the truth

Baby, I'd, I'd be lying
Like all those two-faced, backstabbing double-talkers trying to get to you
If I could, you know I would be
Coming right back home where I belong, I'd be lying next to you
Alright

Call you everyday, wherever I go
Swear you're never gonna hear the word "no"
Promise that I'll never say, "I told you so."
But baby, I'd be lying

I'd let you take your time, I'll never rush
Swear I'll never drink too much
Never think about another woman's touch
But baby, I'd be lying

Everybody's gonna judge me through and through
You can believe what you wanna believe
Let me tell you what's the truth

Baby, I'd, I'd be lying
Like all those two-faced, backstabbing double-talkers trying to get to you
If I could, you know I would be
Coming right back home where I belong, I'd be lying next to you
Yeah

Everybody's gonna tell you what to do
You can believe what you wanna believe
Let me tell you what's the truth

Baby, I'd, I'd be lying
Like all those two-faced, backstabbing double-talkers trying to get to you
If I could, you know I would be
Coming right back home where I belong, I'd be lying next to you
Yeah, I'd be lying next to you
Yeah, I'd be lying next to you

Mmm, yeah
I'd be lying
Yes I would