

Love Myself

Blake McGrath

When I was a child, my mother told me not to cry
That the world would have my back someday
And I wanna remember what it's like to find the light inside
Free, until they told me who to be Made me question all that I believe
And I need to remember what it's like to shine this light inside

Oh, I'm breaking through
Clear in my view

I don't wanna be perfect
Just try'na be honest
I know that I'm worth it, put my fear on the shelf
Let all of my light come out
Let it shine on my doubt
I can't hide it 'cause I finally love myself

Oh I was naive
To think I'd find it all outside
Trapped inside the corners of my mind
But all I need was in me the whole time
Waiting to be let go, time is up, I gotta go
There's more to life than listening to the lies
But now I know I'm not alone

Oh, I'm breaking through
Clear in my view

I don't wanna be perfect
Just try'na be honest
I know that I'm worth it, put my fear on the shelf
Let all of my light come out
Let it shine on my doubt
I can't hide it 'cause I finally love myself
I finally love myself

Call me what you want
But it ain't in my way
'Cause what I bring out
Is what helps me live each day
And I'll strap back on my wings
And fly away

I don't wanna be perfect
Just try'na be honest
I know that I'm worth it, put my fear on the shelf
Let all of my light come out
Let it shine on my doubt
I can't hide it 'cause I finally love myself

I don't wanna be perfect
Just try'na be honest
I know that I'm worth it, put my fear on the shelf
Let all of my light come out
Let it shine on my doubt
I can't hide it 'cause I finally love myself
I finally love myself
