

Trust Me Again

Blake McGrath

I've made a mess
And we're laying in it
One foot away
But feeling the distance
Gave you a million reasons
And watched them tear you down
And I'm paying now

I've waited for you my whole life
Why would I put you through hell?
You got caught in the crossfire
From the war with myself

Tell me now, would you love me again?
Give me another chance, is this where our story ends?
And I'm gonna kiss you the way that I should
I'm gonna hold you like I never could
I'll be better, would you ever trust me again

I've been tangled up
In all my distraction
But I'd come undone
To reset the balance
You have a million reasons
To up and walk away
But please would you stay

I've waited for you my whole life
And still, I put you through hell
I beg you, give me one more try
I promise to prove myself

Tell me now, would you love me again?
And give me another chance, is this where our story ends?
And I'm gonna kiss you the way that I should
I'm gonna hold you like I never could
I'll be better, would you ever trust me again?

For all the nights you slept on your own
All the hours you felt so alone
All the tears that you cried
I wish I could just rewind it all
I'll leave roses right by the bed
Lay you down and hold your head
I swear I'll do better, try harder and harder
Each day, if you stay

I'm gonna kiss you the way that I should
I'm gonna hold you like I never could
I'll be better, would you ever, oh-oh-oh

Tell me now, would you love me again?
And give me another chance, is this where our story ends?
And I'm gonna kiss you the way that I should
I'm gonna hold you like I never could
I'll be better, would you ever trust me again?
Trust me again, trust me again