

Child Of The Moon

Blanche

The wind blows rain into my face
The sun glows at the end of the highway
Child of the moon, rub your rainy eyes
Child of the moon, give me a wide awake, crescent shaped smile

She shivers, by the light she is hidden
She glimmers like a lamp lady vision
Child of the moon, rub your rainy eyes
Child of the moon, give me a wide awake, crescent shaped smile

The first car on the foggy road riding
The last star for my lady is pining
Oh, child of the moon, bid the sun arise
Oh, child of the moon, give me a misty day, pearly gray
Silver, silky stray, wide awake, smile
