

Silver Beaches

Blanco White

So you're telling me now it's all wrong my love
That the memory's end is foregone, and done
Still we walk for miles in my head
To the blue dawn

Moonlight assault my senses
Anodyne for things I've lost
Somehow I need no rest
No alibi, for where I'm going
If something is calling me back
I can say, I can say I
Was never alone
Walking the silver beaches far from home
From home

The truth is I can't forget you
All this time, it's been so long
Part of me knows I am meant to Draw a line, and carry on
But if you would only come back
I can say, I can say I
Was never alone
Walking the silver beaches far from home
From home

So moonlight assault my senses
Anodyne for things I've lost
Somehow I need no rest
No alibi, for where I'm going
Though nothing is calling me back
I can say, I can say I
Was never alone
Walking the silver beaches far from home
From home
