

From Dreams to Nightmares

Blood On The Dance Floor

Spent the night casting spells to bring you back
Filled with emptiness, the shape of my heart is cracked
We are killing ourselves holding on to nothing
Suffering from the curse of hurting to feel anything

The closest I've been to death when I was next to you
When you stopped loving me my room became a tomb
I covered you up with words, buried us in the dirt
A funeral for my heart after been torn apart

All my love is unconditional
Everything was a lie. Am I delusional?
This is the sound of my heart breaking
This is the sound of my heart breaking

We were sold on the dreams
That later became nightmares
We were sold on the dreams
That later became nightmares

You never warned me of the beast who feast on aching hearts
I find myself falling for the wolf who only loves and departs
I blame your father, he never noticed a queen
I blame you mother for not building up your self esteem

The closest I've been to death when I was next to you
When you stopped loving me my room became a tomb
I covered you up with words, buried us in the dirt
A funeral for my heart after been torn apart

All my love is unconditional
Everything was a lie. Am I delusional?
This is the sound of my heart breaking
This is the sound of my heart breaking

We were sold on the dreams
That later became nightmares
We were sold on the dreams
That later became nightmares

This is the sound of my heart breaking
This is the sound of my heart breaking

I could never do
The things you did to me
I could never lower myself
To your level
My only revenge
Was replacing you
With someone
Who could love me better

All my love for you is unconditional
Everything was a lie. Am I delusional?
This is the sound of my heart breaking
This is the sound of my heart breaking

We were sold on the dreams
That later became nightmares
We were sold on the dreams
That later became nightmares

This is the sound of my heart breaking
This is the sound of my heart breaking
