

Human Blur

Blood Youth

You can see it everywhere, open your eyes
This is the hell I've created for the ones I despise
At least I tried to bring a light into darkness
We need to worship the changes

Please forgive me
For what, what I've become
Please forgive me
For what, what I've become

All the hate and the sickness
Always expecting forgiveness
The mask of guilt will always hang on the wall
Send the plagues, the end of days
Get your hands up and worship the change

I've lost my faith in everything
I've lost control of myself again
I've lost my sense of empathy
I've lost myself, where do I begin?

Rely on myself again, am I just missing the rapture?
You knew it all, our foundations are fractured
So overbearing I just can't stand this pain
Break away, we need to worship the change

Please forgive me
For what, what I've become
Please forgive me
For what, what I've become

For what I've become
For what I've become
For what I've become

Please forgive me
For what, for what I've become
Please forgive me
For what, what I've become

I've lost my faith in everything
I've lost control of myself again
I've lost my sense of empathy
I've lost myself, where do I begin?

Where do I begin?

This is it this is the end of the world
This is it this is the end of the world
This is it this is the end of the world
This is it this is the end of the world

Beg for forgiveness
Surviving, down on your knees
End of it
This is, this is the end of the world
End of the world

This is the end of the world
End of the world
This is the end of the