So You Die

Bloodbath

have a feast on your soul And watch your world as it comes tumbling down You know there is no return I will make you burn inside your time has come I show no mercy You know I know no other way Than to revel in your flesh I am born to conquer So you die I live inside you So you die I won't surrender So you die And now when your days are counted I have reached my goal You are broken down Your life is lost I have collected yet another soul That's when you see That you have lost your soul to me That's when you feel That you have lost the will to live And I am still here Waiting for the next to drain of life And I am stronger now Then when I took your useless life No living thing can be spared from my attack When I feel the urge to kill I hate your breath and the strength you get from life Because I have never lived And now its my time to be one with All the mortal ones that walk the earth I enter human form my wicked soul lives on into eternity