

Deep Grass

Blossoms

I just can't keep my mind off you
I don't know why
It seems to make it worse at night
I heard you nearby
Let's fly back to the sound of rain that you love
You love
I keep myself awake at night
Thinking of ways to make it right

I don't really think we tried
Maybe I'm blind, maybe they're right
You don't ever see my side
While the pain still remains, I loved you in vain
A morning wind began
A wandering man
That needs to keep a check on you
I'll hate what I'll find, I need time
To heal this heart, unspoken
Broken
I keep myself awake at night
Thinking of ways to make it right

But I don't really think we tried
Maybe I'm blind, maybe they're right
You don't ever see my side
While the pain still remains, I loved you in vain
I'll give you my last piece of mind
Just maybe this time, give me a sign
To the deep grass, we hide
While the pain still remains, I loved you in vain

Still I wonder
So kiss me under
Moonlit thunder
Stay a little longer

I don't really think we tried
Maybe I'm blind, maybe they're right
You don't ever see my side
While the pain still remains, I loved you in vain
I'll give you my last piece of mind
Just maybe this time, give me a sign
To the deep grass, we hide
While the pain still remains, I loved you in vain
