

Mountain

Blue October

If I can't be a brave boy jumping of the head of a mountain and I wonder why the thought of it brings me to the edge of my bed

if I can't tell the difference from a waterfall and fountain is it the way that you looked at me then in a moment i said that I could sit here for hours waiting on your arrival I could sit here for days hoping you'd come out and play I could die in a minute and the one chance for survival would be the sound of your beautiful name and if I cried would you hold me? softly whisper everything is ok because I live to breath the sky that hangs high above you and the tears that I had before will simply say that I love you!

that I love you!

singing Ohhh... Ahhh...
