

Who Do You Run From

Blue October

Who do you run from, man
What are you scared of though
What do you take back home
Who's going to save your soul

There's a devil inside of me
See him laying on the floor
Cut him open, watch him bleed to death
Now he won't come back no more

I could just stare at him
With his eyes so bright
He was my safety net
He was my middle of the night

Who do you run from, man
What are you scared of though
What do you take back home
Who's going to save your soul

When did we fall back down
When do we fall on faith
How do we reach the ones who push us away
How do we see the light in our time of need
All we have to do is just believe

Oh, who do you run from, man
What are you scared of though
What do you take back home
Who's going to save your soul