

One Last Time

Blue

If I could hold you
If I could hold you in my arms, one last time
Under one last sky
I would have told you
I would have told you, you were mine, one last time
Our last goodbye

How do you save all the people you love
When the weight of the world is what they're running from? 'Cause I couldn't help when you were falling apart
And it breaks my heart

All of these words that I never said
Nothing quite hurts like knowing
What I never told you
I wish I could hold you, one last time
I can still hear your voice in my head
Nothing quite hurts like knowing
What I never told you
I wish I could hold you, one last, one last time

You're the fire, you are gold
Burned so bright and then you left me cold
One last time, one last time

How do you save all the people you love
When the weight of the world is what they're running from? 'Cause I couldn't help when you were falling apart
And it breaks my heart

All of these words that I never said
Nothing quite hurts like knowing
What I never told you
I wish I could hold you, one last time
I can still hear your voice in my head
Nothing quite hurts like knowing
What I never told you
I wish I could hold you, one last, one last time

If I could hold you
If I could hold you in my arms, one last time
One last
One last time

All of these words that I never said
Nothing quite hurts like knowing
What I never told you
I wish I could hold you, one last time (Wish I could hold you)
I can still hear your voice in my head
Nothing quite hurts like knowing
What I never told you (What I never told you)
I wish I could hold you, one last, one last time
