

Can't Win True Love

Blues Traveler

You can't tell me I'm crazy
And have me care
If I'm not I won't believe you
If I am then I'm not there

And you can't win true love
No you can't win true love

You can't change what has happened
No matter how much better you could do
And while we're on it you know you can't change me
Yeah you can't change you, you shouldn't have to

And you can't win true love
No you can't win true love

There is no race to run, no evil curse needs to be undone
No hope of making what cannot be made
Some things are true and they will never fade away
Or up or down or out or in, no you just can't win

You can't forget about me
No matter what the sign says
False advertising everywhere
Trial and error more or less

And you can't win true love
No you can't win true love

Oh, there is no race to run, no evil curse needs to be undone
No hope of making what cannot be made
Some things are true and they will never fade away
Or out or down or up or in, no you just can't win

I can't tell if you are listening
And I can't get to have a say
And I can't see you when you're sleeping
And I can't change it all the way

That I can't make someone feel something
That I can't tell when it's enough
That I can't lose as much to seem to learn
That I cannot win true love, oh oh yeah
Oh you can't win true love

There ain't no race to run, no evil curse needs to be undone
No hope of making what cannot be made
Some things are true and they will never fade away
Or up or down or out or in or through or below or above
No you just can't win true love, no you can't