

The Searcher

Bob Catley

Always been travelling
Far away, you would never stay
Always been searching
Don't know what you will find

Where do you come from
So long ago, though you don't know
Always been hunting
Hunting after life

You have never needed someone
Walking all this way alone
You have seen the end in your dreams
But when you wake up all is gone

Someday
You will find the right way
Find a world without pain
All seems washed away by the rain
Somewhere
You breathe the clean air
All your sorrows are gone
You will know you are the one
You are the searcher

You can remember
There was a place you called home
You never surrendered
You never gave up

You have never needed someone
Walking all this way alone
You have seen the end in your dreams
But when you wake up all is gone

Someday
You will find the right way
Find a world without pain
All seems washed away by the rain
Somewhere
You breathe the clean air
All your sorrows are gone
You will know you are the one
You are the searcher

You have never needed someone
Walking all this way alone
You have seen the end in your dreams
But when you wake up all is gone

Someday
You will find the right way
Find a world without pain
Somewhere

You will know you are the one

Someday

You will find the right way

Find a world without pain

All seems washed away by the rain

Somewhere

You breathe the clean air

All your sorrows are gone

You will know you are the one

You are the searcher

You are the searcher
